HEALTH INSURANCE PORTABILITY AND ACCOUNTABILITY ACT OF 1996 (HIPPA)

HIPPA is a Federal privacy protection that employs a national standard pertaining to individual's electronic health information for health care providers, health plans and employers. Under this act it is required that clients be informed of their rights pertaining to their records.

CLIENTS RIGHTS /RESPONSIBILITY/CONFIDENTIALITY

You have the right to non-discriminatory treatment and to be treated with dignity. You have the right to have your records protected. Furthermore, you have the right to obtain a copy of your records. I will need a written request and a fee will be charged for copies. If the clients are seen as a couple or a family, no information will be released without the written consent of all parties. Exceptions to the right to obtain your record include the therapist concluding that the release may cause harm to you or someone else, or if it is legally advisable. You also have the right to confidentiality and the right to request restrictions on disclosures of your protected health information- with exceptions as noted in limits to confidentiality (Appendix A.) With written authorization, you have the right to authorize the release of your protected health information and the right to rescind your release of protected health information. (To withdraw your consent you need to have it in writing and understand that information already disclosed cannot be undone or recovered.) As a client you have the right to refuse treatment, and obtain referrals to other therapists and/or agencies. You have the right to discuss complaints with me or with anyone of your choosing, including other therapist. You have the right to a copy of this informed consent.

I encourage you, and it is your responsibility, to ask questions when you have concerns, be honest, follow the treatment plan, attend therapy appointments, and inform me of any changes (contact information, or information that would impact you and our therapeutic process such as employment, significant relationships, etc.) It is your responsibility to make payments prior to therapy session.

BENEFITS AND RISKS:

Individual, couple, and family therapy has all been shown to have benefits for many people. However, there can be risks associated with therapy. Growing, making self discoveries and changes is a process and can cause discomfort and experience unexpected feelings such as frustration and guilt. During the therapeutic process clients may experience setbacks which may be inevitable. Individual, couple, and family therapy has all been shown to have benefits for many people. PROPOSED COURSE OF TREATMENT:

The first session is 90 minutes to review intake forms and/or complete intake forms and to allow adequate time to go over concerns and understand informed consent. Sessions are typically once a week for 50 minutes. However, there may be times where twice a week is more appropriate for the treatment. The first few sessions, as we get to know each other, are intended to explore the issues that have brought you into therapy and for me to hear and understand each person's perspective.

Together we will explore what goal(s) best meet your needs and discuss a treatment plan for how your goals can best be achieved. It is your right to request changes or revisions to your goals. We will regularly evaluate progress that is made, and make sure the goals are still appropriate and allow for revisions in a collaborative effort.

There are various techniques I may use during therapy to include communication skill building techniques, genograms (looking at family history), and clinical assessments. It may also be helpful to incorporate other relevant people into the therapeutic process to help support you/your family in reaching set goals. It is important to note that no one would be contacted nor would information be disclosed without your written permission.

FEES/INSURANCE:

My standard fee for therapy is $90.00 per session and 135.00 couple. Although I do not accept insurance, I can provide you with an invoice with my license information. Please check with your insurance company regarding coverage and filing procedures. Payment may be made by cash, Venmo, Apple Pay, Paypal, Visa, or MasterCard. If cancellations are necessary please provide 24 hour notice, otherwise you will be charged full session rate. On a limited basis I offer a reduced fee for services. For further information please ask prior to services. If there is a matter where you need a brief/crisis consultation with me, you may call to discuss the issue. Should the calls exceed 15 minutes or become frequent, a fee will be charged a proportionate amount of your typical session fee.

COMPLAINTS:

Unprofessional conduct can be defined under the revised code of Washington State (RCW 18.130.180) If you feel you have been discriminated against or otherwise treated unethically or unprofessionally you may contact the Washington State Department of Health, PO BOX 47869, Olympia, WA 98504-7869, (360) 236-4700.

COLLABORATIVE SHARING:

Occasionally, I consult my cases with professional colleagues; all names and unique identifying information will remain concealed. The other professionals with whom I work with are bound to the same standards of confidentiality and ethics as I am.

LIMITS OF CONFIDENTIALITY

APPENDIX A

All content of therapy sessions are confidential. Written consent is required for the client's verbal information and/or written records to be shared. However, listed below are the following legal and/or ethical exceptions to confidentiality:

ABUSE OF CHILDREN If a client states or suggests they are abusing or neglecting a child or a mental health provider has reasonable cause to believe a child has been abused or neglected or had been previously abused a mental health provider is mandated by law to report this information to the proper legal authorities and/or department.

VULNERABLE ADULTS If a client states or suggest that they have abandoned, abused, financially exploited or neglected a vulnerable adult a mental health provider is mandated by law to report to proper legal authorities and/or department.

HARM TO SELF If there is reasonable cause to believe and/or a client states or suggests they have a plan or intend to commit suicide, the mental health care provider is legally required to notify the proper legal authorities and make reasonable attempts to notify the family of the client.

DUTY TO WARN AND PROTECT If there is reasonable cause to believe and/or a client discloses they plan or have intentions to harm another person, a mental health provider has an ethical duty to warn the intended victim, notify the proper legal authorities, and make reasonable attempts to notify the family of the client.

SUBPOENA/COURT ORDER If a mental health provider is subpoenaed or court ordered, information and/or records will be released that are related to a report or a complaint. Mental health provider will make reasonable attempts to notify client. If client is contesting the subpoena it is the client's responsibility to properly inform me of the contest.

PRIVILEGE WAIVED If any Washington-state agency that oversees my licensure subpoenas me as part of an investigation, I am required to comply and may be asked to disclose your personal information. If legal actions are brought against a mental health provider by a client the privilege of confidentiality is null and void.

MINORS Parent/legal guardians hold the privilege of confidentiality when the child is under age 13. Information obtained in therapy from a minor under age 13 may be shared with parents/legal guardians.

INSURANCE COMPANIES/BILLING Insurance companies may need dates of treatment and diagnoses for reimbursement. Complete confidentiality cannot be assured when using insurance.

I have read the above and fully understand the limits of confidentiality.
